New Features, Upgrades
Coming Soon to Michigan Experts

Michigan Experts, a searchable database of more than 4,700 faculty members across disciplines at the University of Michigan, will soon undergo a platform upgrade.

The new upgrade will:

- Increase the capabilities of the site and
- Add functionality, such as the ability to upload publications from other select databases.

More information, including training opportunities to review the new platform, will be announced in the coming months.

Since its launch five years ago, the Michigan Experts database has continued to expand in both its reach and functionality.

A small sampling of the many schools, centers, and institutes represented on the database includes:

- Medical School
- Schools of: Kinesiology, Dentistry, College of Engineering
- Nursing, Pharmacy, Public Health
- College of Literature, Science and the Arts
- Cancer Center
- Samuel and Jean Frankel Cardiovascular Center
- U-M Dearborn
- Various campus institutes and many more!

How to Use

Michigan Experts can be used to find researchers for collaboration or mentoring, exploring co-author networks, and for connecting with colleagues across the preeminent U-M research enterprise.

The database can be searched by concept, individual name, or “free text” excerpt (such as an abstract or RFA).

Each faculty member has an individualized profile page that enables them to showcase their distinctive expertise to the global research community by providing a rich representation of their:

- Publications (updated on a weekly basis through the Scopus database)
• Grants, e.g. externally-funded sponsored projects obtained while at U-M
• Patents (obtained through the U-M Office of Technology Transfer while at U-M)

The database, powered by Elsevier, is managed by the Medical School's Office of Research and Medical School Information Services.
